

MRS. AMY GILLIG BECOMES MRS. JACKSON GOURAUD.

Marriage Had Been Looked For Ever Since the Divorce of the Three-Times Bride.

MRS. JACKSON GOURAUD.
Formerly Mrs. Henry M. Gillig.

Broadway will be interested, if not surprised, to hear that she who was Mrs. Henry M. Gillig is now Mrs. Jackson Gouraud. They were married in London May 1, and are now enjoying a belated honeymoon at the Hotel Scribe, Paris. It is expected they will sail for this country June 15, and take possession of Mrs. Gillig's country estate, La Hacienda, at Larchmont Manor.

Mrs. Gouraud—Amy Gillig she was years almost as familiar a figure on Broadway as the statue of Horace Greeley at Thirty-second street. No first night was considered complete without her. Since the opening of the theatrical season of '96-'97 she, accompanied by Mr. Gouraud, was certain to be at a conspicuous first night as Abraham Hummel, Joseph Howard, Jr. and Marshall P. Wilder.

Mrs. Gouraud was, in her youth, Amy Crocker, daughter of one of the original promoters of the Central Pacific Railroad. When he died he left an estate of $10,000,000, which was divided between three children.

Mrs. Gouraud's income has been for many years about $200,000 a year. She was very beautiful. In 1882 she eloped with R. Porter Ashe, a Kentuckian, who has gained fame on the Pacific coast.

Later she went to Honolulu, where she evidently enjoyed herself. A child was born to her, Gladys, who still lives. She secured a divorce from Mr. Ashe and, in 1889, was married to

HOBOKEN RATS RAID A SCHOOL.

Teachers and Children
Afraid to Stay in Classroom.

An army of rats is about to deprive hundreds of school children in Hoboken of the privilege of attending school. The school authorities are considering the advisability of either hiring a "Pied Piper" to rid the rat-infested schoolhouse from the pest, or closing the school house temporarily.

The school is an annex school and is located in what is known as the old engine house at First and Madison streets. It accommodates 300 children.

Janitor Thomas Meschan first noticed the invasion of rats about six months ago. The rats have increased in number to such an extent that they scurry across the class rooms while the classes are in session, and frighten teachers and pupils. They are big rats, too. The school sessions are daily interrupted by the screams of teachers and school children when they find an ugly rodent coming out of its hole.

To make matters worse the janitor has discovered that many of the rats are being killed by the poison which is being strewn about the building to kill the rodents and are dying in inaccessible places in the woodwork and threatening to breed disease.

Principal Meschan has had the schoolhouse closed to-day, but the teachers are angry and threaten to quit work if the school is not closed and more congenial quarters provided.

SAYS TEACHER BEAT BOY.

Mother Complains of Alleged Brutality in Patterson School.

Mrs. Elmer Dutcher complained to School Superintendent Goodenough, of Patterson, to-day against Principal William S. Twitcheil, of School No. 6, who, she said had beaten her fifteen-year-old boy.

Young Dutcher's teacher reported to Mr. Twitcheil that the boy was not making satisfactory progress. Mr. Twitcheil told the boy, who who declared that he would leave the school if he could not be advanced.

He refused to leave the room and Mr. Twitcheil told him to sit down. He refused and the principal, it is said, grabbed him by the arm and shoved him out of the room.
